Substitutes May 6 for March 6 as the Date for the Termination of Terms of the Frent-dest, Vice-President, and Members of Congress - The Post Office Bill Passed. WASHINGTON, May 10.—The most important action to day by the Senate was the passage o a joint resolution by more than the required two-thirds vote proposing an amendment to the Constitution fixing Inauguration Day hereafter as May 4 instead of March 4. As introduced the resolution called for the substitution of the last Thursday of April for the 4th of March as the commencement and termination of the effices of President and Vice-President, Senators and members of Congress. The resolution was explained and advocated by its author, Mr. Mear (Rep., Mass.). One reason for the substitution, he said, was that the last week in April was usually a delightful period of the year in Washington, whereas the 4th of March had frequently proved to be one of the worst and stormlest days. Another and more important reason for the change was that, with Congress meeting in December and adjourning (for the short session) on March 4, there were out ten or eleven weeks (allowing for the Christmas holidays) in which to dispose of the business of the session, including thirteen great approeriation bills, whereas if Congress were to meet November, or even (as now) in the first week of December, and sit till the end of April it would have five or six months for the transaction of its business, and might shorten the long on by a couple of months. Mr. Perkins (Rep., Cal.) opposed the change and said that he considered such a proposal as almost a sacrilege. In relation to the argument as to weather, he said he had examined the record of the twenty-eight inauguration days from 1789 and found that seventeen of them had been fair and pleasant days, nine stormy, and two days of which there was no record. The last Wednesday or Thursday in April last was the coldest and most inclement of the whole

Mr. Bacon (Dem., Ga.) suggested that a certain day of the month should be fixed, instead of a day of the week. The effect of the latter would be, he said, the shortening of the term of the outgoing President one day. That, he thought, would present a practical difficulty, because (as the Constitution fixed the Presi dential term at four years) the outgoing Presi dens would have the constitutional right of exercising the functions and duties of his office for one day after the inauguration of the incoming

Mr. Stewart (Pop., Nev.) concurred with Mr. Bacon as to the propriety of having a fixed day or the month for the inauguration, but he thought that the day should be the 10th of May. when Washington has got on her spring dress. Mr. Chandler argued in favor of the proposed

Mr. Chandler argued in favor of the proposed constitutional amendment. In response to Mr. Bacon's objection, Mr. Chandler said that if a day of the month were fixed that day would sometimes fall on a Sunday, a Saturday or a Monday, all of them inconvenient days, whereas with the inauguration fixed in the middle of the week visitors and visiting organizations would have the opportunity to come and to go away during the week without encroaching on Sunday. He could not think of any slight change in the Constitution that would be of so much practical benefit to the people of the United States as the proposed amendment.

Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) moved to make inauguration day the fourth day of May. He argued that if Congress would attend to its business it would not be necessary to extend the session by one month or two months.

"We have been in session now," he said, "going on six months, and what have we done! We have simply wasted the time of the reople and our own time to no advantage to either. I do not wonder that the people sometimes become disgusted with Congress and everything connected with it. Of all the organizations on the continent that are proverbially slow Congress stands first." Mr. Allen's amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Bacon moved a proviso that the compenconstitutional amendment. In response to Mr.

The joint resolution was then passed by the necessary two-thirds majority—yeas, 39; nays, 10. It reads:

"That the following article be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, as part of the Constitution, namely: The term of office of the President and Vice-President and of the Fifty-sixth Congress shall continue until the 4th day of May in the year 1901, at noon; and the 4th day of May, at noon, shall thereafter be substituted for the 4th day of March as the commencement and termination of the official term of the President, Vice-President, Senators, and Representatives in Congress."

The negative votes were given by Messrs. Bacon, Berry, Clay, Lindsay, Money and Pettus, Democrats; Butler and Harris, Populists, and Perkins and Wellington, Republicans.

In the early part of the session a memorial for Congressional aid in exterminating the gypsy moth was presented by Mr. Lodge (Rep., Mass.) and was referred. The conference report on the bill to provide for organizing a navel battalion in the District of Columbia was agreed to.

A resolution was offered by Mr. White (Dem., Cal.), and was laid on the table temporarily, instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire into the cases of Harry K. Spring and Charles W. Nelson, citizens of the United States and residents of California, who are under agreat in the republic of Colombia; whether they have been detained unreasonably, without trial, or have been otherwise restrained unlawfully of their liberties, and whether the ciplomatic officers of the United States in Colombia have made appropriate exertions in the matter.

The consideration of the Post Office Appropriation bill was resumed, and Mr. Butler IP. p., N. C.) moved to amend the section providing for a joint committee to inquire whether excessive prices are paid to the railroad companies for the transportation of the mails and for postal car service and as to rates of postage upon all postal matter. Mr. Kyle (Pop., S. D.) asked to have the voluntary arbitration bill made a special order for to-morrow at 2 o'clock. Mr. Sewell remarked that no hearing had been given to the railroad companies which were the most directly interested in the matter, and Mr. Allen characterized the bill as an artful and cunning composition against the latering men and in favor of the transportation companies. FRED DOUGLASS'S WILL.

The Widow Loses a $10,000 Specific Beques

WASHINGTON, May 10.-The Court of Appeals to-day sustained the lower court in the matter of the will of the late Frederick Douglass. The estate of the colored leader was valued at about $300,000. In his will be gave the homestead with its contents, books and papers, to his wife. He also left her $10,000 in money and $10,000 in registered bonds, which he owned at the time in registered bonds, which he owned at the time the will was made. He subsequently sold the bonds, and when the widow applied to the children for the money value of the bonds they declined to give it up. As they had inherited the remainder of the property in equal shares, the widow took the case into the courts.

The lower court held that the bequest of the bonds was a specific bequest, and that she could not recover their value. The Court of Appeals to-day upheld the decision, and she will lese the bequest. Mrs. Douglass is a white woman, and there is considerable ill-feeling between her and the children of Douglass's first wife, who was a negro.

ernoon the head belonging to the man's bedy which was found on the bank of Verona Lake last Friday afternoon was discovered. Burton P. Rhoydhouse, a journeyman painter of Caldwell, and Everett E. Davenport, a blacksmith of Verona, made the search which re-sulted successfully. They had with them three dogs which belong to Rhoydhouse.

Rhoydhouse and Davenport were diligently

t work digging with sticks in the mire about the head of the lake when one of the dogs, young pointer, began to scratch in a mudho about fifty feet from where the body was Rhoydhouse noticed this and remarked to Davenport: "There may be some thing down there, for that dog acts very strangely." Both men started for the spot, The dog made a plunge into the mire before either of the men could reach the spot and dragged out an object covered with dripping black mire which appeared to be a football. When Rhoydhouse and Davenport made an investigation of the find made by the dog they saw that it was the missing head, Rhordouse hurried with it to the home of Hiram Cook, the Verona Lake boathouse keeper, who lives but a short distance from the place where the head was found. Cook had it washed Although cut and slashed in many places it was not discolored, but on the contrary was well preserved, the cool mud evidently having served to keep it in good condition. It was apparent from the appearance of the head that the murder was a very brutal one.

Deputy Sheriff Teed was sent for and wrapped up the head in paper and took it to Gustave Kunz's undertaking establishment in Main street, Orange. Mr. Kunz, who is s county morgue keeper, kept the head in his county morgue keeper, kept the head in his office till 8 o'clock to-night and then he removed, it to his morgue in Jefferson street, Orange 'alley. Over 2,000 people viewed the head and although many said "the face looks familiar" there was no one who gave a clue which might lead to its identification.

The murdered man had an intelligent face, with a determined jaw and a high forehead. He had long, silky, auburn hair, well trimmed about the ears, and had a Roman nose. The cars are small and lie flat against the head. He had a pretty large but well-formed mouth, and his cheek bones were somewhat prominent. He had blue eyes and a slight auburn mustache covers the upper lip without hiding to any excent the upper front teeth, it being apparent that in life when the man smiled his teeth were very conspleuous.

in life when the man smiled his teem were very conspicuous.

The face was covered with a stubby growth of beard of a week or more. The upper teeth are almost perfect, being even and well formed, but the teeth in the lower jaw are blackened and somewhat decayed. Where not cut or discolored by stabs or bruises, the skin is remarkably clear and fair. The man chewed tobacco when alive. He had some tobacco in his mouth waen he was murdered, as his mouth held a chew when the head was found. The indications are that the man was about 28 or 30 ions are that the man was about 28 or 30

The head shows a bullet wound over the left temple and two deep stab wounds in the cheek just in front of the right ear, which were evidently inflicted after the man had been killed and while his murderer or murderers were in search of a convenient place to begin decapitation. The left side of the face was badly bruised and the left ery was swollen and discolored. There was a deep gash in the left check near the nose, and the teeth were closed down on the tongue as if he had died in terrible agony.

Among the many callers at the morgue tonight was William Schuidt, a hotel keeper from Pleasantdale, near Verona Lake. He said he thought the body might be that of a farm hand employed by him or a German in the employ of John Wolff, a neighbor, both of whom have disappeared mysteriously in the last week. Mr. Schmidt, after studying the features of the head, came to the conclusion that he never saw the man before. William Horan, a journeyman hatter of Orange, said he believed he had often seen the man about the city, but he could not place him.

THE MENDOAL COURT-MARTIAL. Constructor Bowlea Beacribes the Before

Naval Constructor Bowles, who superintend ed the repairs on Dry Dock No. 3 at the navy yard, continued his testimony yesterday at the court-martial of Civil Engineer Menocal. He described his investigation of the defects in the construction of the dock. Five big pieces of the dock piling were used as exhibits. Constructe Bowles testified that when he had removed the defective sheet piling he discovered numero openings which had allowed the water to flow into the dock. Other holes, some being under the calsson, were found with the aid of incan-descent lights. These defects, in his opinion, were due to the piling, which he believed had never been set straight, and often the piles did not come in contact with each other. The piling had evidently never been waterlight. Judge Advocate Lauchhelmer asked the witness this question.

Advocate Lauchheimer asked the witness this question:

"In your oninion, were or were not these defects which you have stated to the court as existing in the outer gate still known to those who were at work at the time when the work was completed?"

Mr. Rand, counsel for the defence, objected to the question on the ground that it involved the question of responsibility, which was not within the province of the witness to determine. After deliberating for a quarter of an hour the court sustained the objection. The court also refused to allow Constructor Bowies to be examined in regard to the condition of the concrete work, as it had not been included in the general charges. Mr. Bowles's examination was not concluded.

H. J. Whigham, the amateur champion, has been detailed as a Cuban war correspondent. A despatch from Chicago states that as nothing had been heard from Whigham for two weeks it had been feared that he had been captured by the Spaniards, but the arrival of despatches from Key West on Monday relieved the uneasiness about his safety.

A revision of the scores in Saturday's handi-ap at the Harbor Hill Golf Club, by the Handicapping Committee, shows that the winner was E. D. Crowell, 94, 8, 86, and that Austin P. Kelly was second with 95, 8, 87. The places were reversed in the report first sent out.

Philadelphia Oarsmen for the Harlem Regatta. PHILADELPHIA, May 10 .- The Pennsylvania Bargo Club, which made such a "killing" at the Labor Day regatta at New York last fall, to-day decided to make three and perhaps four entries in the Harlem regaits on Decoration Day. Van Vilet, Scott, Dempsey on Decoration Day. Van Viiet, Scott, Dempsey, and Exipy will row in the senior four, and Ed Marsh and Monohan will enter the senior doubles. Monohan, last August, won the champion doubles with Van Viet, while Blarsh, an old Vesper man, is one of the best scutters on the Schuylkill litver. Jim bempsey, who won the junior singles at the Labor Day regatts last year, will row in the intermediate singles, and if Marsh is in sufficiently good condition he will enter the senior singles and row against Ten Eyek. The entries will probably be mailed tomorrow.

Ted Bloom Scores Over His Rival Jacksys-Sims Captures the Grotona Handleap in a Ret Finish with fity Fox, and Also Wins on Previous-Three Pavorites Earn Brackets. There was a complete and welcome transfornation in the weather and track conditions at Morris Park yesterday, when the second day's racing of the Westchester Association's spring necting was decided. The first gental sunshing hat has smiled on the sport lit up the big in closure and its surroundings, and dried the tracks in a fashion that made the going good, if not fast. The patronage was up to the average for what is considered an "off day," and when the bugle sounded for the two-year-old stakes the gathering was estimated as between 3,000 and 4,000 persons.

The red-letter event of the afternoon was the Fashion Stakes of $3,000, for two-year-eld fillies, and a good field of ten turned out, the only withdrawals being W. H. Clark's The Rose, James Galway's Harmonica and E. T. Graves's Reflect. The Morris Brothers' stake-winner Prestidigitatrice was naturally installed favoragainst her at post time. W. A. Chanler's Tender and John Sanford's Nell Dale were equal second choices at 6 to 1, the only other one backed being John Daly's High Degree, with Sloan up. The latter won all the money. Sloan got her off in second place, and came along within a neck of the favorite for half the distance. Then he took her to the front, and won cleverly by a length from the Morris filly, who beat Lady Onward, with Burns up, three lengths for the place. Four lengths back came J. McLaughlin's Water Girl, followed in order by Tender, Nell Daic, Belle Stuart, Bell of H., Miriam Claire, and Corsican Maid. The time was within a second of the record for the dis-tance and the course made by Geraldine as a four-year-old with 122 pounds up, in 1889, and was half a second faster than L'Alouette made n the same race last year.

Next in importance came the Crotons, of $1,500, for three-year-olds and upward, the first of the series of highweight handleaps. Five runners went to the post, and Charley Dwyer's Sly Fox was played at 7 to 5 to best the lot. Thomas Cat ruled second favorite on his Washington form, and there was also a good play on Damien. Warrenton, with Bergen up, made most of the running, with Ruskin in close attendance. All were well bunched at the hometendance. All were well bunched at the homestretch and a sensational race ensued. Warrenton looked to have the best of it opposite the free field, while Ruskin still showed prominently in second place. Then there was a gradual closing up, and it was anybody's race up to the last few jumps, when Sims lifted Sly Fox to the front and won by a head, while there was an equally short margin between the others. Sly Fox and Sims were applauded lustily when they returned to the judges' box.

The first race of the day was a three-horse affair with Previous, Gala Day, and Ten Spot as the contenders. They finished as written with the odds-on favorite Previous well in hand. Gala Day was driven hard by Irving to capture the place from Ten Spot, who was quoted at 60 to 1. The second race, for three-year-olds and unward over the Withers mile, brought out ten runners, among whom Deerslayer, with Tarai up, was favorite at 8 to 5. W. C. Daly's Arabian took the lead soon after flagfall and won practically all the way by a length. Marsian hung on to Arabian throughout and took the place by two lengths from Louise N., who came up very fast from eighth place. Deerslayer was never a factor in the contest.

Fifteen runners turned out for the maiden two year old dash fourth on the leard. They were a crazy lot, and very difficult to handle. The post, but he remounted. J. Storey Curtis's colt Muggins drew the unlucky number 13, and although piloted by T. Burns, fell after two furlongs. H. Lewis got away well with J. MeLaughlin's Counsellor Wernberg and kept him going long enough to win by a neck. Jean

The handicap which wound up the card brought out four runners, of whom Handball was a top-heavy favorite at 7 to 10. Arquebus, with Burns in the saddle, was next in demand at 4 to 1. W. C. Daly's Ortoland, at 6 to 1, ande all the running to the incleasure when

ROWING.

Cornell's Ultimatum to Yale and Harvard-Quadrangular Race for Saratoga.

ITHACA, May 10 .- The Cornell Athletic Counil held a meeting last night. No business of any importance was transacted. The Secretary f the Council was asked to-night whether anything was done relative to the change in the date of the Yale-Harvard-Cornell boat race. He stated that the question was not discussed in any way. He stated further that the matter was regarded as closed by Cornell. The despatch from New Haven in The Sun of this norning, stating that the 'varsity race must be rowed on Saturday, June 25, or a later date, was read by members of the Council, who made the same comment as the Secretary. Cornell con-siders Friday, June 24, as the day named for siders Friday, June 24, as the day named for the 'varsily races. As was stated in The Sun of Monday, it will be on the date first agreed upon or not at all. The New Haven officials say that June 24 was not agreed upon at the original conference. It will be remembered that Cornell did not arrange the date for the Columbia-University of Pennsylvania race until after the Yale-Harvard conference, so that evidently her representatives must have received assurance as to the date of the New London races. It can be stated that the Cornell-Columbia-University of Pennsylvania-Wisconsin boat race will be rowed at Lake Saratoga on July 1. At the conferences held for selecting a course Saratoga was the unanimous choice. Capt. Doison is endeavoring to have the length of the race changed from four to three miles. The Cornell crew want the latter distance for the reason that if the Yale-Harvard-Cornell race is rowed, when the crew comes to row four miles week later on dead water it is likely to go NEW HAVEN, May 10.-Coach Bob Cook of the

NEW HAVEN, May 10.—Coach Bob Cook of the Vale crew this evening practically announced the selection of the 'varsity crew for this season by stating that the following oarsmen would receive uniforms: Capt. Payne Whitney, W. B. Williams, J. W. Cross, F. W. Allen, J. C. Greenleaf, R. A. McGee, H. P. Wickes, James C. Greenway, J. Penn Brock, and R. P. Flint. This number, ten, is the usual list selected to go to New London. Dave Rogers and W. E. Griswold of last year's 'varsity boat will not get uniforms. They are not even at the training table. All the above oarsmen, except Capt. Whitney, were members of last year's freshman crew. All the above coarsmen, except Capt. Whitney, were members of last year's freshman crew. Cambridge, May 10.—Coach Lehmann surprised the knowing ones to-day by putting C. W. Locke, who has been stroking the freshman crew, at stroke in the university boat. Locke, according to Lehmann's judgment, is rowing one of the best oars in the river, and is most likely to hold his place in the race at New London. In the first trial row he did very poorly, as he was stupefied by his sudden elevation, but on the second trial he did much better, and showed the best stroke form seen on the Charles this season. The crew whipped in behind him rud some extremely good rowing resulted. To-night Locke was taken to the 'varsity training table. He is the second man to be taken to the 'varsity from the freshman boat. Locke has been rowing a remarkably good oar all spring, and much of the success has been due to him. Coach Lehmann prophesied a great future for Locke the first day he watched him work, but as he is a slight fellow, very little larger then Briggs, the Cornell stroke, it was feared that he could not last out a four-mile race. Higginson has been setting a remarkably good stroke all stroke, it was feared that he could not last out a four-mile race. Higginson has been setting a remarkably feared that he could not last out a four-mile race. Higginson has been setting a remarkably good stroke all spring, and for this reason the change was such a surprise. Higginson to-day rowed at 2, replacing Blake. The order of the varsity crow was: Stroke, Locke; 7, Biddle; 6, J. F. Perkins; 5, Heath; 4, J. H. Perkins; 3, Lawrence; 2, Higginson; bow, Marvin; cox-swain, Plumb.

FIGHTING.

Brady Tells What Cythett Will Do to Get On a Match with Fitz.

Sporting men yesterday divided their attention between the war with Spain and the possibility of another fight between Champion Fitzsimmons and Jim Corbett. While many were of the opinion that the champion's defi was the initiative for another "jaw-working" match, there were others who thought that something might come of it. Billy Brady, who returned to town yesterday from Rochester, said:

"Jim Corbett, is only too anxious to fight Fitzsimmons. He will stick to the offer he made some time ago. Jim will make a match with Robert Fitzsimmons for a $10,000 side bet and the championship of the world. Then if Corbett fails to stop Fitzsimmons in ten rounds he will give to Fitz $25,000 in cold cash. Bob wants the battle to be decided in September Well, that suits us to a nicety. If no club offers as large a purse as $25,000 Corbett will make up as large a purse as $25,000 Corbett will make up the deficiency and hand over the entire amount of money in the event of Jim falling to knock his man out in the stipulated number of rounds. This couldn't be any fairer. It is an inducement which has never been made by any one person to snother. If Fitz raises an objection to this the public will readily see that he does not wish any of Jim's game. I am ready to sign articles forthwith for Corbett. He will stand by everything he has said, and if F.tz-simmons is so very anxious to fight here is his chance. I will meet F.tz or Julian to-morrow to deposit the money and make a match.

Brady said he would also accept Fitzsimmons's offer of a wager of $2.500 that Corbett would not enter the ring in the time specified.

"Will Corbett meet Fitz in this city if a purse is offered I he was asked.

"Certainty, if the conditions do not infringe on the law," was Brady's reply. "I may lyd for the affair myself. I have an application for a license for the St. Nicholass Skating Rink, where I intend to have a boxing club. I will give a tidy sum for the battle, but just how much I cannot divulge."

Al Smith, who is one of Corbett's greatest admirers, and who was stakeholder in the last light between Bob and Jim at Carson, said:

"I am glad that Fitzsimmons has accepted, and hope something will come of it. I am glad, too, that we will receive annother chance of seeing two such big, clever men come together. Of course, I can't offer any opinion as to who will win the next time, but you can bet half of your life that it will be a fine struggle. There are no frills, I'm sure, about Jim's latest manifesto."

Hoston, May 10.—Martin Julian said to night het. The Firsting has head and the provise had adeled in the future to the deficiency and hand over the entire amoun

HOSTON, May 10.—Martin Julian said to-night that Fitzsimmons had decided in the future to pay no attention to either Corbett or McCoy.
"Where win Corbett set $25,000 "he saked." or Brady either! They couldn't get $5,000 before. It's only another of Corbetts bluffa. The first was $25,000 the minute Bob stepped into the ring with him; now it's $25,000 for ten

Hamilton Institute Still Suspended, but Gete Rack Its Entrance Vees. The May meeting of the New York Interscholastic

A. A. was held at Wilson and Kellogg's School, 692 Fifth avenue, yesterday afternoon. The delegates present were: Caldwell and Hetzel, Barnard: Thomas and Duval. Berkeley; Belknap and Elemdrof, Collegiate; Bell and Percey, Columbia Institute; Von Taube and Arkel, Madison: Cadenas and O'Brien. Colembia Grammar, Talmadge and Pell, Cutler; Brennen and Batter, De La Salle Institute; Eakin and Wolff, Drisler; McCabe and Mullally, Dwight; Hudson and Ward, Halsey; Wouffhelmer and Hoguet, Sachs; A. Brown and D. Browne, Trinity; Tilt and Weil, Wilson and Keilogg's; Leavitt and Taliman, Weil. Wilson and Keilogg's; Leavitt and Taliman, Woodbridge.
The only matter of importance brought before the meeting was the report of the committee in the Hamilton Institute case. The latter was suspended from the association on May 11, 1897, for non-payment of fines. The Institute A. A. claims that previous to the suspension it had sent a large list of entries to the spring games of that year with full pay for the same. Their athletes were not allowed to compete, but the money was not refunded. The committee yesterday reported that it had found that Hamilton Institute had sent its entries and money for the games previous to suspension, and therefore recommended that the association pay $12.50 to Hamilton Institute. The latter still stands suspended for refusing to pay the fine imposed, claiming that it was unjust.
